

NOTICES.

The editor has been asked to arrange for the sale of old books used in the P. R. School, and she is sure that many people would be glad to acquire these at half price, etc., when there is no likelihood of their being used again. She cannot undertake, however, to receive either books or money, but she will publish any priced lists of books for sale, sent to her with the names and addresses of the would-be vendors.

The next issue of "L'Umile Pianta" will be after the Ambleside and London Conferences. Students who read papers at the former are especially requested to send them to the editor afterwards without waiting to be especially asked or invited to do so. It is also hoped that students attending the London Conference will give their absent brethren the benefit of their notes, &c., by sending them to the Plant.

I hope all students understand that any matter, questions, notes, hints, papers of all sorts are thankfully and gratefully received at any time.

All matter for the Conference number should reach the editor

By JUNE 1st.

Articles are also asked for on the following points:—

"Talents Killed by Teaching."

"Taste as an evidence of the Subjective (i.e., unconscious) Mind."

"Children's Friendships."
